

TULSA OVER TOP ON THE VICTORY LOAN

Total Subscriptions May Reach a Million Dollars, Exceeding Quota by $300,000.

COUNTY HAS NOT REPORTED

Full Returns From Drive Are Promised by Campaign Workers by Next Monday.

Tulsa has oversold its victory bond quota, probably by more than $300,000, which will bring the total subscriptions for this county up to $1,300,000.

The exact amount of sales reported Saturday by City Manager A. V. Davidson was $1,300,000.

Complete reports from the county had not been received. These are expected by County Chairman Frank Bryant early Monday, when the final statement of the results of the campaign will be made.

Not only has the city of Tulsa gone over the top, but it is understood that every town and school district in the county has performed its obligation, thus making possible the success of the campaign by the county as well as in the city of Tulsa.

While the drive is over and the campaign committee has only to sum up the results to complete its work before closing the subscription drive, some who have not purchased bonds may still obtain them by subscribing through the banks.

TWO DESERTED HUSBANDS BRING DIVORCE ACTION

Suits for divorce were filed in district court Saturday by H. C. Peaslee against Helen M. Peaslee and by T. S. Martin against Carrie Martin, in which both plaintiffs allege abandonment on the part of their wives.

Peaslee alleges that he and his wife were married at Fairbury, Neb., on December 29, 1916, and lived together until April 26, 1918, when Mrs. Peaslee deserted him, which abandonment has been continuous since that time.

Declaring his wife has practically abandoned him, and that before the separation after which she returned to Fairbury, Mo., in five with her parents, she often told the plaintiff that she could not live with him, T. S. Martin asks decree of divorce from Carrie Martin. The plaintiff states that since his wife deserted him he has contributed funds for her support and the support of their minor children and wishes to continue this support as he has in the past.

NEGRO IS FOUND GUILTY FOR INCITING A STRIKE

NEW ORLEANS, May 10.—Joe Dennis, a negro, today was found guilty by a jury in the United States district court of inciting a strike at the Gulfport yards of the Texas & Pacific railroad near here September 11, 1918. Federal authorities said the verdict, which found Dennis guilty on four counts, was the first conviction of its kind in the United States. One charge against Dennis was retarding the movement of troops.

Dennis was not a member of any union, and was not entitled to protection afforded representatives of organized labor in strike matters.

PONCA CITY TURNS OUT WHEN PERRY FLIES OVER

When W. T. Campbell, local aviator, flew to Ponca City Friday with E. R. Perry, vice-president of the Couden company, as passenger, almost the entire population of the little refining center wanted to take a ride with the Tulsa flyer. Advance notice of the Tulsa-Ponca City flight had been telephoned to Ponca City and the whole town turned out to welcome the aerial travelers.

The trip to Ponca City was made in one hour and 10 minutes, while the return trip required an hour and a half. The flight was made primarily for the purpose of demonstrating the commercial value of the airplane to the Couden man for use in oil field travel.

Discharges in Army Pass 2-Million Mark General March Says

WASHINGTON, May 10.—Discharge of the war army has passed the two million mark, General March, chief of staff, announced today, and the number of troops returned from France now exceeds one million.

Official estimates of the general staff show that a continuation of the present rate of transportation of troops from France will result in the reduction by August 1 of the American force in France and Germany to 225,000 officers and men, and about 1,000,000 of supplies, troops, motor vehicles and the navy personnel attached to the army.

The movement from France during the month of April totaled 600,000, General March said, and the acceleration of the official schedule is proceeding to the point where it seems certain that the official estimate of 3,000,000 per month will be reached and exceeded.

As an example of the degree to which the return of troops has been expedited, General March said that the Swedish, Finnish and other army divisions which were scheduled to sail about the second week in June, would embark this month.

Lithuanians Want Hearing. By The Associated Press. PARIS, May 10.—The Lithuanian delegation to the peace conference has asked President Wilson for a hearing concerning the status of the new republic and its desire for recognition.

Opportunity Knocked. We Took Hold. Why Not You?

Why not buy Children's Shoes NOW? We have on sale an extremely large stock bought at a big reduction—14,000 pairs of standard grade shoes. Just think of it. We can save you one-fourth on some of these shoes and one-half on a good many more.

This is positively the greatest sale in the central part of the United States.

The largest manufacturer of western made shoes is moving his Kansas City branch to St. Louis. Rather than pay freight he has closed out all samples and odd lots to the UNION STORE, 112-114 South Main street, Tulsa, at a tremendous sacrifice.

Their last year's sales were seven million dollars.

These people operate 14 factories. This is the greatest opportunity we have had to sell shoes at bargain prices. Don't miss the greatest sale in the central part of the United States at the Tulsa Union Store, 112-114 South Main Street—Adv.

NATIONALISM END SEEN BY WILSON

into the light. You have to go through the twilight into the brightening day before the noon comes. And the full sun is on the landscape, and we must see to it that those hopes are not disappointed by showing them the processes by which hope must be realized, processes of law, processes of slow disentanglement from the many things that have bound us in the past.

Process Is Slow. "You cannot throw off the burden of a century in a day, any more than you can throw off the burden of the individual immediately. They must be slowly altered. They must be slowly adopted. They must be slowly shaped to the new ends for which we would use them. That is the process of law if law is intelligently conceived.

I thought it a privilege to come here tonight, because your studies were devoted to one of the things which will be of most consequence to men in the future, the intelligent development of international law. From sense this great, unprecedented war was fought to give validity to international law, to prove that it had a reality which no nation could afford to disregard; that while it did not have the ordinary sanctions, while there was no international authority as yet to enforce it, it nevertheless had something behind it which was greater than that, the moral attitude of mankind.

If we can now give to international law the kind of vitality it can have only if it is an expression of our moral judgment, we shall have completed in some sense the work which this war was intended to emphasize.

Want Chartered Sea. "International law has perhaps sometimes been a little too much thought out in the closest international law has (may I say it without offense?) been handled too exclusively by lawyers. Lawyers like definite lines. They like systematic arrangements. They are uneasy if they depart from what was done yesterday. They dread experiments. They dread charters, and if they have no charters, hardly venture to undertake the voyage.

Now we must venture upon charters, and to some extent in the future we are starting out on an uncharted seas, and therefore we must have a will not only the audacity, but the steadiness of purpose which is necessary in such novel circumstances. And we must not be afraid of new things, at the same time that we must not be impatient of old things. We must weave out of the old materials the new garments which it is necessary that men should wear.

It is a great privilege if we can do that kind of thinking for mankind, human thinking, thinking that is made up of comprehension of the needs of mankind. And when I think of mankind, I must say I do not always think of well-dressed persons. Most persons are not well-dressed.

In Plain Jackets. "The heart of the world is under very plain jackets. The heart of the world is at very simple firesides. The heart of the world is in very humble circumstances, and unless you know the pressure of life of the humbler classes you know nothing of life whatever. Unless you know where the pinch comes, you do not know what the pulse has to stand, you do not know what stress the muscles have to bear, you do not know what trial the nerves have to go through to hold on.

To hold on where there is no grief in life is the hard thing. Those of us who run all our lives in leisure and read pleasant books and think of the past, the long past, that we have no part in and protest the long future, we are not specimens of mankind. The specimens of mankind have not time to do that, and we must use our leisure when we have it to feel with them and think for them, so that we can translate their desire into a fact, so far as that is possible, and see that that most complicated and elusive of all things that we call justice is accomplished. An easy word today and a noble word upon the tongue, but one of the most difficult enterprises of the human spirit.

It is hard to be just to those with whom you are intimate; how much harder it is to conceive the problems of those with whom you are not intimate, and be just to them. To live and let live, to work for people and with people is at the bottom of the kind of experience which must underlie justice.

Must Stand on Same Level. "The sympathy that lets the slightest touch of sadness in it has no touch of helplessness about it. If you are aware of stooping to help a man, you cannot help him. You must realize that he stands on the same earth with yourself and has a heart like your own and that you are helping him standing on that common level and using that common impulse of humanity.

In a sense the old enterprise of national law is played out. I mean that the future of mankind depends more upon the relations of nations to one another, more upon the realization of the common brotherhood of mankind, than upon the separate and selfish development of national systems of law, so that the men who can, if I may express it so, think without language, think the common thoughts of humanity, are the men who will be most serviceable in the immediate future.

"God grant that there may be many of them, that many men may see this hope and wish to advance it, and that the plain men everywhere may know that there is no language of society in which he has no teachers or collaborators, in order to reach the great ends of equity and of high justice."

Are You "In Tune" With Spring?

We All Get Out of Tune Once in a While

None of us can go on and on without retuning. Constant wear and tear—the strain upon the nerves and functionaries produces unpleasant discords in the body. Life in the office becomes full of jarring notes and annoyances.

Tune up, tune up—Now!

Spring means renewing, readjusting, refreshing up, getting in tune with life.

If you feel the slightest bit out of tune, if you hesitate to leap into the midstream of your daily activities you need retuning. And be careful of the instrument you use. Don't throw a wrench into the machinery by selecting the wrong "tuner."

Put it up to us. We have ready a big stock of "tonics" and "rebuilders"—enough to enable you to select the one that suits your individual case.
